COLUMN ONE

I Kare For Kids 3K/5K/10K

Saturday, October 26 Kare Youth League members, parents, friends, and neighbors are invited to take part in Kare Youth League's annual 3K/5K/10K Walk or Run at Santa Fe Dam in Irwindale. It is a great family event but is also a challenge for the more serious runner as well. The race begins at 9:00 a.m. and is followed by the popular Rubber Duck Race. For more information feel free to visit our website at kyl.org/5K or ask for a brochure in the office.

Last year's race had a thrilling start. Come be part of the action this year at the I Kare For Kids 3K/5K/10K at Santa Fe Dam.

RHP Homecoming's Always are Memorable

The memory of an angry bird battle is still fresh in our minds from last year's Rio Hondo Prep Homecoming. Friday, October 18 will be the big night this year for the Kare Youth League girls and their assistant coaches as the Rio Hondo Prep Homecoming Queen and her Court are crowned. The football game will also be important for the third ranked RHP boys as they face always tough Flintridge Prep to see who takes the upper hand in Prep League play. Plan to come out and support the young men and women who help with your child's team on this huge night.

Showcase is Big Success

The Kare Youth League Showcase at San Dimas High School was incredible last Saturday. Children covered the field playing football and volleyball, as well as performing in front of the huge crowd at the ceremony. Thank you for making this year's event a big success! If you still have money out from ticket sales make sure to turn it in this week.

A Star is Born - Part 1

Paul Harvey and the Rest of the Story

He was a big name in silent films, starred in nearly forty. And if he enjoyed more so-called star treatment than others in his studio, you'll understand why.

Only minor hardships accompanied his special celebrity: boring premieres, long promotional tours, hospital visits, and openings. But the other side of the coin was shiny.

While other cast members had to work in sometimes miserable weather, his studio contract provided for a stand-in. While his co-stars were largely neglected and underpaid, he was given all consideration and was making a fortune. As one might expect, the sense of this preferential regard was measured in dollars and cents.

During the Silent Era, he was Warner Bros.' biggest star. He was the mainstay of the studio's financial structure. On several occasions, when it seemed Warners might go under, the box-office gross of this one performer brought in sufficient revenue to pay other losses...losses on such films as those starring John Barrymore. In motion picture plots, this hero always "saved the day." In real life he did as well.

Here's a story line for you. Old-time mining town, lots of rough characters. Our hero, in order to pass through town unnoticed, is wearing a false beard. Predictably the beard falls off, our hero is recognized, and at once he is fleeing an angry lynch mob. Stale as it sounds, this was the sort of bread-and-butter silent movie plot that kept Warner Bros.' books in the black.

The star of that particular movie served as a cornerstone for more than three dozen others like it. He was Warners' top star. In 1926, he superseded Chaplin, Valentino, and Fairbanks in the polls. In that pre-Oscar era, he was voted most popular film performer of the year.

Did public relations people have private problems with this celebrity? Oh yes they did. (continued next week...)
