COLUMN ONE

The new Bazooka Ball Shooting Range is going to be a great addition to this summer's adventures at Mount Kare. Come and check it out at the Mount Kare open house.

Mount Kare Open House

Do you know what you are doing on Saturday, May 24 on Memorial Day Weekend? May we suggest a fun activity that is actually free? That's right; you can come up to Mount Kare, our camping facility in Wrightwood. While here, you can participate in all kinds of activities, have lunch, and it won't cost you a penny.

The best way to experience Family Day at Mount Kare is with a friend from your team. We suggest getting together with a few families and coming up at the same time. Activities like archery, lizard hunts, crafts, bazooka ball, or playing hockey are a lot of fun with a few friends. The buffet lunch will be good enough to please any palate and games like ping-pong and foosball can be played in the game room. Make sure to pick up a flier in the office for directions and come ready to have some fun.

Way to Go, Kylie

Hawk Kylie Montalvo in the Pac Five Division doesn't horse around. When she wants something, she goes all out. When the tickets came out, Kylie decided she wanted an Apple Mac Book Air Computer. Some would say it isn't possible to sell 500 tickets to earn that prize. Well, I guess they don't know Kylie. With a full month to go, Kylie is now just a few tickets away from reaching her goal. How did she do it? Did her dad sell them at work? Does she have a rich relative? No, as an old commercial from the 80's would have said, she "did it the old fashioned way; she earned it" by selling almost all of them herself.

Circus Tickets and Life

I read a story in God's Little Devotional Book. A family once moved into a new apartment and soon found themselves besieged by salesmen desiring to sign them up for everything from laundry service to life insurance. One day, a dairyman came to the door offering his services. The woman of the house said, "No, my husband and I don't drink milk."

"Be glad to deliver a quart every morning for cooking," the dairyman persisted. "That's more than I need," she replied, trying to close the door. "Well, ma'am, how about some cream? Berries comin' in now, and..." She answered curtly, "No, we never use cream."

The dairyman walked away slowly and the woman congratulated herself on her sales resistance. The following morning, however, she answered a knock at the door only to find this same dairyman at the door, a bowl of ripe strawberries held carefully in one hand and a half pint of cream in the other.

"Lady," he said, as he poured the cream over the berries and handed them to her, "I got to thinkin'. If you've never used cream on berries, you sure have missed a lot in life." Needless to say, he delivered to her house every day thereafter!

When met with resistance, a leader will use creativity and kindness to overcome obstacles. Don't take "no" for an answer; just approach the issue from a different angle.

When selling at a supermarket, car wash, or door to door in your neighborhood; don't take "no" for an answer. Your customers need to know that they can get a free subway sandwich. They need to know that they can win a thousand dollars. They need to know that, if they don't have $10, they can still make a donation to help your team and the cause. They need to know that they will be hearing about the famous sky-walk across the top of the Rose Bowl and will want to have seen it for themselves. They "need" that ticket. Don't take "no" for an answer.
