The huge Kare crowd at the game made a big difference to the Rio Hondo Prep girls' CIF Championship victory over Price last Saturday, and a big shout out goes to all those who made the trip to Santa Ana for the game. The Price fans were on the other side of the court and, well, let's just say, there weren't as many there.

COLUMN ONE (UPDATED ON 3-11)

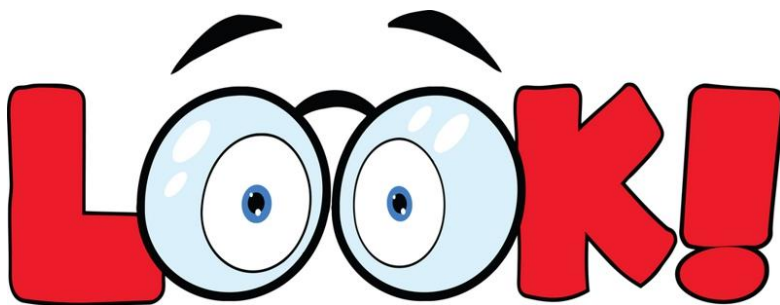

Rio Hondo Prep girls' basketball team wins its third ever CIF Basketball Championship with a victory over Price 66-57.

Rio Hondo Prep Girls Win CIF Championship

The Rio Hondo Prep girls' basketball squad completed a memorable season with a CIF Championship victory over Price 66-57. Most of these girls have grown up here at Kare Youth League and we are all very happy for them. They were a true example of what a "Kare" should be. The crowd at the game made a big difference with our crowd outnumbering the Price crowd at least five to one.

We know that the CIF game caused a few problems with Kare games and staffing in the offices on Saturday. We apologize for any inconvenience there might have been for any of our members. We have made notes for the future if (and hopefully when) something like this occurs again so we will be better prepared next time.

Something New on the Horizon

There is something new coming to Kare Youth League in June. Be on the lookout for a mailer coming to your house. It will be the opening announcement for an exciting new adventure in the long history of Kare Youth League.

A Real Vietnam Story: Part One by an anonymous and proud veteran

Recently in the news we were informed that a certain news anchor was not as honest as it appeared about his experience in war. Below is a true story as told by a real Vietnam vet.

In late 1968 I was assigned to a recon mission deep above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), along the border between North Vietnam and Laos. We were to find and report on North Vietnamese Army (NVA) troop locations and/or activities moving down the Ho Chi Minh Trail. The mission called for half of my 12-man team. This was to be a long mission lasting 4-5 weeks, because once inserted we had to move on foot, probably 75 clicks (about 46 miles) in 3 days, and find an observation point we could hunker down in for weeks. Remaining undetected was critical. Every 8-10 hours, one of us would venture from our outpost by a few clicks and radio back with any observations. Toward the end of the mission, unbeknownst to us, the NVA had discovered our location. My One-Two named Bill set out on his rotation turn at 0600 to reach a good observation point, which was only about 1000 meters away. It was probably 1300 hours when Bill returned, crawling up the slope to our post. Right as he got about 10 feet away, he looked at another team member and me, and whispered that there must be 1600 NVA down in the valley. I looked at Bill and responded, "No, they're not down in the valley; they're right behind you!" Bill had been followed by a small group of about 10 NVA. We immediately started to engage the NVA, detonating the Claymore mines in the zone we were receiving fire. The mines probably took out 3-4 NVA. While all this was happening, my One-One was on the radio giving the codes for a hot extraction. We received acknowledgment, and had about 12 minutes to get to the first pre-selected extraction point.

With the remaining 6-7 NVA pinned down by two team members, the other three guys and I made a run for the crest of the hill...
