

INTERLEAGUER

VOLUME 75, NUMBER 9 • OCTOBER 19, 2015

COLUMN ONE

And the Winner is...

Last Friday, October 16 Kare Youth League found out the three big winners of the 3-2-1 Fall Sport ticket drawing. The winning stubs were selected at random during halftime of the Rio Hondo Prep football game. 3rd place went to Xavier Fallon, 2nd place to Irene Hooper, and 1st place to Kevin Connor. Congratulations!

Say, “Cheeeeeeeese!”: One More Week

The month of October is “Team Picture Month” at Kare Youth League. Picture packages are $20 and need to be paid for before the photographer can take the shot. Below is the schedule:
Saturday, October 24 – UNC & Kentucky (except Kentucky C and AAA which were taken the week before) & Covina Karenas & Pac Five Ravens in Covina.

Trunk or Treat

There is going to be a special church service at our Kare Youth League church in Alta Loma (5719 Beryl St.) on Sunday, October 25 at 5:00. After the service we will be celebrating our 2nd anniversary with a “Trunk or Treat” spectacular. Children can come in costume and there will be lots of candy, hot dogs, a bouncer, and other fun activities. Please stop by.

Here is a spooky shot from last year’s Trunk or Treat of Kieya and Davin Castillo. You can be a part of the fun this year on Sunday, October 25 at 5:00 in Alta Loma.

A Plan for Your Child’s Faith

(From Sticky Faith by Kara Powell and Chap Clark)

Imagine a photo of high school seniors who have been attending a local church in your community. Now take a red marker and place an "X" over almost half of their faces. According to a handful of research studies, those students with a red "X" represent the almost 50 percent of youth group graduates who drift from God and from the church after high school. As a parent or grandparent, what can you do to help teenagers have faith that lasts?

For six years, a team of faculty and graduate students from Fuller Seminary conducted the College Transition Project to find the answer to that question. Conducted by the Fuller Youth Institute (FYI), the project included qualitative and longitudinal quantitative studies of 500 Christian youth group members during the first three years of college following high school graduation. The data, as described in a new book called "Sticky Faith" authored by Kara Powell and Dr. Chap Clark, suggests that parents:

- 1. Share verbally about their own faith journeys. Stop lecturing your kids or interviewing them; instead, share organically about your own faith. Use time in the car, recent current events, or dinner discussions as a chance to share how your own faith is growing, or ways that your faith impacts your everyday life. Include both a sense of your present religious experiences and insights as well as highlights of your faith journey in the past.
- 2. Ask their children who they will turn to when they have doubts. Doubt in and of itself isn't toxic; it's unexpressed doubt that turns toxic. One of the repeated themes in the research was the importance of parents giving their kids space to wrestle with tough faith questions until they pinned down their own answers. Giving permission for independent thought leads to stickier faith.
