God's Little Devotional Book

By John G. Nicolay and John Hay

A window-washing company was washing the exterior windows of a condominium complex one day. One of the crew members mistakenly began to wash the windows of a unit that was not on the schedule. The owner of the condominium came rushing out and said to the window washer, "I didn't order this service. I have no intention of paying you for this work."

The man washing the windows thought fast on his feet and replied, "That's okay. Every time we do a condominium complex, we do one extra unit 'on the house' to show owners such as yourself what a fine job we do, and to show you what you are missing."

The owner of the unit was so impressed that he signed on for the service the next time the company visited his complex. The company executives, hearing of his tact, decided to adopt this approach as a sales gimmick. It turned out to be the best boost to business the company had ever experienced, and the quick-thinking employee earned a raise.

Give some thought to what you would do to improve your company if you were suddenly made the CEO or owner. Then find a way to implement your ideas, or share them with someone who can. Proverbs 16:20 – "He that handles a matter wisely shall find good."

Just a Few Reminders

With the SoccerFest fast approaching it is important to remember a few important things:

- 1) Every child needs to reach their assigned quota in sales to participate in the soccer game at the Rose Bowl (and also to participate in soccer during the summer or our fall program in August). It is important for each member to do their share. If you are having trouble please talk to your child's leader this week so that something can be done.
- 2) Money can be turned in all the way until June 11 at the Rose Bowl.
