One More Form to Sign ☹️

Nobody likes signing a bunch of forms but some are hard to avoid. You may or may not be aware that California now has a new law that affects youth sports. Anyone participating in any youth sports (including all the sports that we play at Kare Youth League) must sign a special sheet that informs families about concussions in sport. The form must be signed by the parent and the child to be able to participate in practices or games beginning in baseball and softball. The form will need to be signed yearly and no one will be allowed to participate unless the form is signed.

Post Season Excitement Almost Here

With just a couple of games left until basketball playoffs it is important to keep a couple of things in mind. First, if a player misses more than 2 games during the season they are not eligible for an award or to participate in post-season play. Second, fans need to stay positive and control negative comments directed towards the officials, coaches, and players. Thank you.

Ask For the Moon: Part Two

Edited from Chicken Soup for the Soul (Percy Ross)

When I was nine I went to the exclusive Miscowaubik Club to apply for a job to shine shoes at a nickel a pair. My mother dressed me in my best clothes. My father drove me in his horse-drawn junk wagon. I remember even now how nervous I was sitting beside him on the high, wooden seat. We didn't talk much and I've often wondered if he was quiet that day because he suspected what might happen when I knocked on the door of the club. Its members were the wealthiest families in town, the captains and lieutenants of the Calumet and Hecia Consolidated Copper Mining Company. Even the name of the company awed and intimidated me.

Finally, I saw the Miscowaubik Club come into view. My father waited while I walked to the big front door; I remember the brass handle on it. With beating heart and high hopes, I knocked. The door opened, and a well-dressed man peered down at me. He didn't invite me in. He just asked what I wanted. I said, "My name is Percy Ross, and I've heard you need someone to shine shoes." He replied coolly, "We don't need boys like you."

The words hit me like a ton of bricks. Dazed, I walked back to the horse and wagon. My father was so quiet. Why was I turned away? Maybe it was because I was Jewish. Maybe it was because I was from the other side of the tracks: painted in large letters on the side of my father's wagon were the words WM. ROSS – JUNK DEALER.

On the ride home, I asked my father, "Why didn't he let me in the door? What kind of boy am I?" My father didn't have any answers. I remember I cried all the way home.

I have gotten over many disappointments, in my life, but those words still hurt. It is this that sparked the dream of having a bicycle party in the Middle East. I'm going to give that party for the hope, however faint, of a world without hate, fear, oppression, or resignation. I think it can make a difference.
