Snakes Are Not Charming

Snakes are native to our area and we wanted to alert members that they can show up at any facility anytime. Please make sure all children know not to attempt to handle snakes and to report any sightings immediately to Kare staff so we can deal with the situation.

Kare has been using snake repellent since we first learned of their presence and is now working on ways to discourage snakes further by trying to install snake prevention fencing. We are looking for parent volunteers who may be available to help us with the installation. If you can help, please send your contact information to Mr. Jim Smith at jsmith@kyl.org

Safety is continuously our top priority at Kare and we are always open to your thoughts and observations. Please feel free to leave us any suggestions you have at any Kare office.

God's Little Devotional Book

Dr. Lida Earhart had a reputation for giving her best to any task she undertook. It was that kind of diligence and pursuit of excellence that led to her being the first woman at Columbia University to attain the rank of full professor.

After she retired, she moved to Washington DC and became a parishioner at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. One day, a member of the church women's associating asked Dr. Earhart to give a talk on the Book of Job during one of the upcoming monthly meetings. She agreed. No doubt the person who extended the invitation was anticipating the basic run-of-the-mill presentation, but she didn't really know Lida Earhart.

Lida studied the Book of Job for two months. She researched the archaeological features of the time of Job and his contemporaries and read numerous commentaries and analyses by biblical scholars. She deeply pondered the book's theme. The result was a presentation that people were still talking about many years later.

What was amazing to her pastor was that she had done all that work for an "ordinary church meeting." Lida, however, didn't know the meaning of ordinary. Leaders are made out of ordinary people who choose to go beyond the ordinary to the extraordinary. That's what sets them apart and makes them leaders.
