INTERLEAGUER

VOLUME 79, NUMBER 5 • SEPTEMBER 23, 2019

COLUMN ONE

Rio Hondo Prep gobbled up Arroyo 42-0 last Friday to complete the sweep (girls volleyball also won) in the "Battle of the Wash". The next game is Homecoming vs. an always tough Big Bear squad. Come early for the best seats.

Keep Up on Team App

Make sure to keep up on the latest developments for your team on Team App. It is easy to sign up and you can receive team information, check out the latest schedules, receive up-to-date information on cancellations due to weather, and many other important announcements. Go to Team App and register today!

This is a shot from the 2017 Rio Hondo Prep Homecoming. This year will be a real Jurassic Park adventure (or should we say Jurassic "Kare" Park). The girls from Kare Youth League's D3 and Royal Friends will be performing. You won't want to miss it.

Uncommon Life

By Tony Dungy

In early 2001, rumors began swirling that the Buccaneers were considering replacing their current head coach if the team wasn't sufficiently successful in the upcoming season. People kept asking what I thought about those rumors, since I was the current head coach. My response was always that my job was to coach, and God's was to figure out the rest. Plus, a lot could happen in a year...

The story is told of a man who was caught sealing in a far-off kingdom. As he was brought before the king, he was informed that the penalty for stealing is death. Despite the stress of the inevitable, the man seemed relatively calm. He knew that the king had a beloved, prized horse that was treated like a member of the family, and the thief planned on playing a hunch.

When the man was brought before the king to be judged and sent to his execution, the thief asked if he could say a few words. The king agreed.

"Your Majesty, I know you have a wonderful horse. If you will give me one year to work with him, I will teach your horse to talk. If I am successful, you will spare my life." The king thought over the man's offer for a moment and agreed.

On the way out of the king's chamber, one of the man's friends said, "Are you crazy? You can't teach the horse to talk! You'll be dead in a year." To which the temporarily relieved man replied, "You may be right. But you know what? A lot can happen in a year. I may die of natural causes, the king may die, or...the horse may talk."

Sometimes life looks bleak, especially when we think we know what tomorrow will bring. The reality is that we don't know. Tomorrow is but a fog.

Don't count yourself out too early. Sometimes things work out in unexpected ways. Sometimes the miraculous happens. Sometimes, the horse may talk.
