INTERLEAGUER

VOLUME 81, NUMBER 25 • MARCH 14, 2022

COLUMN ONE

The 2022 Bible Basketball Tournament on Sunday, March 27 will be exciting, fun, and, at the older ages, very competitive. Get your team together to be part of the action.

It's March Madness Time

Basketball enthusiasm takes over during this time of the year when college basketball teams face off in the NCAA Basketball Tournament. Kare Youth League has its own version coming up in less than two weeks. Kare Youth Church (which holds services every Sunday morning at Rio Hondo Prep in Arcadia in the gymnasium) is sponsoring a Bible Basketball Tournament for Kare Youth League teams on Sunday, March 27th during the regular church service at 10:00 am. There will be awards for the winners and lots of goodies to eat. Parents are also invited to attend the service. It will be unlike any church service you have experienced before. Ask your coach for a list of questions so you can start working on them.

The Brunch at the Big A is a Month Away

We are just a few weeks away from our first ever sponsor event at the Big A in Anaheim, home of the Angels. The morning of April 2nd will be jammed packed with activities (there will be no Kare Youth League activities in the morning on that day but there will be afternoon games for the D2, D1, AA-1, and Pac 12 Divisions). There will be tours, food, speakers, a batting cage experience, and much, much more. It's time to pick up your tickets for the big day (tickets are available for purchase in the office). Besides attending the event, another way you can help is to get the business where you work (or just someone you know) to be a team sponsor for your child's squad. The business gets some great perks and so do you.

Stay True in All Circumstances

From 109 Forgotten American Heroes

One of many forgotten heroes of the Underground Railroad was Calvin Fairbank. As a child, Calvin developed an early disgust with the practice of slavery. He listened to slaves tell their stories of hardship, and was convinced of the inherent evils of enslaving other people.

In 1837, he took action. While on a raft on the Ohio River, he spotted a black slave on the Virginia side of the river. He told the man to climb aboard and ferried him to the free land of the Ohio side of the river. This became Fairbank's life's work. In total, he helped free forty-seven men and women from bondage. He would retrieve them from southern states, disguise them, and smuggle them to Ohio, where other people would be waiting to bring them to safer destinations in the North, or in Canada. Like others who worked as part of the Underground Railroad, Fairbank had to keep his activities hidden. As a minister, he would occasionally preach or lecture on his anti-slavery views, but by and large his work was secret.

However, shortly after being ordained a Methodist elder, Fairbank was arrested and tried for freeing slaves. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison, of which he served four before being pardoned. In 1851, two years after he was released, he was kidnapped and sent to Kentucky, where he was tried again and sentenced to an additional 15 years in prison. This time he was in prison until 1864, 13 years later, before being pardoned. After he got out, Fairbank remained a critic of slavery. Before his death, he published an autobiography titled, Rev. Calvin Fairbank During Slavery Times: How He "Fought the Good Fight" to Prepare "The Way," (not exactly a catchy title), which detailed his efforts to free Southern slaves.

Unfortunately, Calvin earned very little from the book's publication and he died in poverty in 1898 in New York. Usually the right course is not the easiest or most exciting. Popular and fun are rarely the adjectives used to describe the right path. Find your path and stick to it no matter how hard the winds blow.
